TRACT ARGUED IN U. S. COURT. SITUATED IN BUCHANAN COUNTY.

Two Interesting Railroad Cases Submitted-Petition for a Mandamus Against Judge Paul-Attorneys Admitted-Court to Take a Recess.

The United States Circuit Court of Appenls was in session yesterday, with Judges Goff, Simonton, and Brawley, on the bench. Argument was heard in the case of Henry C. King, appellant, vs. Elkborn and Sandy-River Land Trust et. al., appellees. It is an appeal from the Circuit Court of the Western District of Virginia. The cause was argued by Daniel Trigg for appellant and by V. C. Graham, of Taxewell, Va. for the appellees, and sub-

The statement of the case sets forth that "on the 7th day of April, 1894, the appellant, Henry C. King, filed his bill in the Circuit Court of the United States for the Fourth Judicial Circuit. at Harrisonburg, Va., setting forth that by sundry mesne conveyances exhibited with said bill, he claimed to be the owner of a certain tract of land lying in the county of Buchanan, in the State of Virginia, embraced in a grant of the Commonwealth of Virginia to Robert Morris, of date, June 23, 1795, for 500,000 acres. That the said tract of land is wild land, covered for the chief part with a heavy growth of marketable timber, which constitutes the chief value of the land; and that for the preservation and utilization thereof the appellant was taking the steps set forth and named in said bill. That in derogation of the right and title of the complainant, the defendants, who are the appelless, had come upon the said land and without consent and against the protest of complainant, were proceeding to cut down and remove the said timber, to the irreparable damage of the complainant, and thereupon pray-ing that an order might be made upon the defendants that they appear and the defendants that they appear and shew cause why an injunction should not be awarded against them perpetually restraining them from cutting timber upon and removing from the said land, and from entering upon the same, or hindering or restraining complainant in the use and enjoyment thereof, or from interfering in any manner with complainant in the use of said land, and from committing trespass thereon, etc.

In the case of S. P. Chapman vs. the Yellow-Poplar Lumber Company, application for mandamus against Judge Paul was made by the Yellow-Poplar Lumber Company, through their counsei, Hon. J. N. Baldwin, of Iowa. Judge Paul held that the cause could not be heard in the lower court until costs of action had been paid, amounting to $4,900. The company claimed that Chapman was in-solvent, and petitioned the judges of the appellate court that the case should be heard without costs being advanced. Houses Moved-Talk of Rebuilding Others-Personal.

SALEM, VA., February 12 .- (Special.)-During the palmy days of 1890, when It was thought that Salem would spread and grow to be a city, several handsome buildings were erected on what are now practically "commons," but which were then dignified with the name of avenues. Two or three of these buildings have since been torn down and re-erected on Main street, where they are now a credit and ornament to the town. There is now some talk of moving Hotel Salem, which cost $100,000, to the beautigrounds in West Salem, on which ke Spring Hotel once stood, and which, until it was burned down a few years ago, was a noted summer resort. It is also rumored that the Hockman ck, another costly structure, may be rebuilt on Main street.

The lands of the Oakland Company, better known as the Allen Watts Farm, situated between Salem and Roanoke, were this week rented for taxes by the Treasurer of the county to George C. Huff for one year for the sum of $711. A few days ago the pleasant home of W. H. Tinsley, in West Salem, was sold by auction for $1,409.

To Preserve Old Records-A Recommendation.

WILLIAMSBURG, VA., February 12 .-(Special.)-President Lyon G. Tyler, of the college, appeared before the City Council yesterday, and asked that certain old court papers in the jury-room be preserved, and stated that if the Council would make a small appropriation, sufficient to pay for the covers, the work of indexing and assorting the papers would be done gratis by himself, Professor Stubbs, College-Librarian Coleman, and Clerk T. H. Geddy. The papers referred to are old deeds and records of the old Chancery Court. The request was granted. Mr. Tyler asked permission to be allowed to frame and place in the college library the copy of the original town charter, which is in a dilapidated condition and in possession of the Clerk of the Council. The charter will be returned to the town whenever preserved, and stated that if the Council will be returned to the town whenever they may wish it. The request was granted.

CASE OF TWITCHELL

SUPREME COURT DECLINES TO HEAR ORAL ARGUMENT.

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION INVOLVED.

Contention That the Henrico Court-House Being Within the Corporate Limits Only City Officers Have Jurisdiction.

The Twitchell case is now in the hands of the Supreme Court of Appeals, and the man who shot Paul Davis, the negro who had assaulted his daughter is in the custody of that court, though still held a prisoner in the county jail. In obedience to the mandate of the Supreme Court, Sheriff Simon Solomo produced Twitchell in that court yesterday morning, and through Attorney General R. Taylor Scott and Common wealth's-Attorney Sands, filed his answer to the motion for a writ of habeas corpus, made by Wise & Wise, counsel for Twitchell. The answer avers that the Henrico court-house is in the juris diction of the county, and not a part of the city, as maintained by Twitchell's counsel, and to maintain this claim, seve ral legislative acts are cited, on of which, enacted many years ago, defines the borders of Henrico, and declares the court-house grounds in the city to be a portion of the county. The lawyers on both sides were pre pared to argue the case, but the court preferred not to hear argument, and directed Sheriff Solomon to take charge of the prisoner and keep him in custody, subject only to its orders. A decision in the case will probably be handed down client, Messrs, Wise & Wise cite the Fitch case and the Chahoon cases, both of which are parallel with the or at issue. The Fitch case was decided by this present Court of Appeals. Fitch was accused of perjuring himself in the Augusta County Court, which is in the city of Staunton. He was arrested by the city police, and tried and convicted of the offence in the Corporation Court. It was contended that the Corporation Court hadn't jurisdiction, but the Supreme Court decided that it had.

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS INVOLVED. Though it is not generally known, there hangs upon this case a great deal more than the liberty of Twitchell. If the court decides that the county hasn't jurisdiction in its court-house grounds, it will mean that henceforth no constable of the county will be authorized to make an arrest therein; that no magistrate of the county will have power to issue a warrant within the court-house or within the city limits; that of Ma to be an it beyond the borders of Richmond, will pointment). be unlawful, and that any notary public appointed for the county to swear a person who may want to take oath at the court-house will have to take him beyond the city limits in order to legally administer the oath.

The Chahoon case had its theatre in Richmond and in Henrico. Chahoon, who was Mayor of this city at one time, was charged with forging and uttering a bond, and he was arrested and tried therefor in the Corporation Court of this city. It could not be proved that he had committed the forgery, but it was proven that he uttered the bond, by sueing on it in the County Court. It was contended by his counsel that the deed was, therefore, com-mitted in the county, and the city hadn't jurisdiction, but the Supreme mitted Court decided otherwise and will force the magistrates to move out in the county.

Mr. Sands, however, is confident of getting a decision favorable to the county, and it is understood that he depends on the act of defining the borders of the county, and making the court-house grounds a part of the county.

It is contended in the light of these decisions that the city has jurisdiction in this case, and in view of the fact that Messrs. A FINE MANUFACTURING SITE.

By virtue of a deed of trust to the un-dersigned trustee, dated August 3, 18%, and recorded in the Manchester Hustings Court, Deed-Book 14, page 381, to secure A note therein desc ibed, default having beed

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 17th, at 5 P. M., the REAL ESTATE described in said deed as follows:

"All that certain parcel of land, with the improvements thereon, lying and being in the city of Manchester, Va., frooting on the northwest side of Hull street if feet 2 inches, commencing at a point is feet 6 inches from a street 30 feet wide, hear the Danville railroad; extending along Hull street towards Second street 72 feet 2 inches; thence running back within parallel lines 150 feet."

The nearness of this lot to the Danville (Southern) railroad, makes it a very desirable factory or manufacturing site, or with slight expense the old dwelling could be turned into two or more houses, which would pay well.
